The resources needed to carry out these proposals are as discussed below:

1. Collaboration with healthcare providers and community leaders.
2. Questionnaires entailing simple questions regarding their overall health.
3. Software programs to feed the information and carry out statistical analysis.
4. Communication between the executive members and other stakeholders needs to be enhanced. Frequent meetings with staff members would provide a platform to share ideas and come up with proper strategies for the benefit of the overall health of society.
5. Resources used in training nurses from research centers in the nursing sector, previous research work by qualified experts in the field, proper technological gadgets, and skilled nursing professionals
